The student will learn that among the indications of failed leadership are: one that is not willing to be humble, one that is intemperate and emphasizes titles rather than the calling, only to mention a few. Major causes of failure will be dealt with such as fear of competition, disloyalty, over-promising and under-delivering, over expectations, selfishness and lack of willingness to learn. On the contrary, students will learn success attributes such as: mastery of organizational details, willingness to assume responsibility, cooperation and a pleasing personality, steadiness in the midst of human drama, faithfulness to the call of God, among other key determinants. The definition of a successful leader is he/she who exhibits self-control, a sense of fairness and justice, and works the requisite time to achieve success in his/her goals regardless of the availability of resources because he/she is serving God in His Vineyard and not him(her)self. Successful leaders have unquestioned pedagogical mastery and are willing to cascade and model these concepts to their subordinates.
